

Medicaid is an entitlement program. You have to have very little in assets in order to be eligible for the program. There are numerous exceptions, however, as to the resources that you're entitled to keep and still be eligible for Medicaid. A consultation with a knowledgeable attorney is essential, so that the attorney can guide the client as to how to become eligible for Medicaid without spending all of the assets.