

THE MAKOFSKY MINUTE

November 22, 2022

It's the time of year for giving thanks, and we, at Makofsky Law Group, want you to know that we are thankful for you. We are grateful that our clients chose to trust us to help their beloved family members or protect their own future interests. We don't take this trust in us lightly, and we are extremely appreciative that you put your faith in us – thank you.

Thanksgiving is also a wonderful time to reconnect with family, but sometimes reconnecting can be a bit eye-opening, especially if you haven't seen family members in some time. As you sit around the dinner table, you may notice changes in behavior or limitations in physical ability that hadn't been there before.

Thanksgiving is a time for giving thanks, but it is also an excellent time to reassess your future and that of your family.

So, while giving thanks, also consider asking some questions... Is mom and dad's estate and disability plan up to date? Is yours? Do your parents need extra help in the home? Is it time to execute a health care proxy or power of attorney? When have you last reviewed your previously executed documents? Is everything up to date? Are mom and dad's assets protected? Are yours? (We know these can be difficult topics – but when better to have the discussion than over a good meal? And you can always time the conversation to coincide with the pie.)

Know that we are always here to help, provide advice, and create a plan that will work for you and your family. If you think we can help you, call or email us! In the meantime, enjoy your Thanksgiving and know that we count you among the things that we are grateful for.
